“Hope Through Perseverance”

Written by Bora Lee (Torrance Head Teacher)

Independent living for people with disabilities is not just about an individual having control over their lives, such as finding a job, receiving appropriate services, attending various programs throughout the day, and/or having access to public transportation. It is about the person having a social life to have fun and to be a complete member of the community that one lives in. Together with all of our participants, volunteers, and teachers, Torrance Class AGAPE recently visited an art exhibition. It was featuring the works of one of our participants, Sarah Woo and at this exhibition, I, along with many of our high school volunteers, discovered how a person with disability can empower not only other people with disabilities, but also people without disabilities. Sarah’s passion for art and perseverance to master the necessary skills finally paid off when hundreds of people visited to see her artwork. Sarah showed dedication; being dedicated means a person will not stop at anything, will overcome any and all hardships and continue doing what they love to do. It also requires determination, willingness and the pure passion; however, at some point in our lives, we get to a point when we feel like giving up, but Sarah’s artwork inspired many people not to give up on their dreams. Through the battles she has fought, the actions she had taken to fulfill her dream, she has become an inspiration. Sarah is now a role model for many people who may or may not have disabilities. She clearly showed that as long as they set their heart to it, people could do anything. I hope that seeing how Sarah did not allow her disability to get in the way but successfully shared her dreams with others through this Art Exhibition, the other participants and volunteers at Torrance Class AGAPE were also challenged and would continue to see the Hope through Perseverance.

James 1:2-4 says “Consider it pure joy, my brothers, whenever you face trials of many kinds, because you know that the testing of your faith develops perseverance. Perseverance must finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything.” I pray that whatever difficulties we face today, we do not forget the promises God has given us and to give our best to fulfill our dreams.
